What Befel Two Trojan Dressmakers.

Two of the leading dressmakers of this city took it into their heads, about a month ago, to go over to Europe, and make arrangements for getting the fashions at the earliest possible moment. Each had an eye on the other; each intended to get clear ahead of the other. Neither of them knew that the other was intending to go abroad. As rivals sometimes do, even if they are women, these two hated each other. They engaged passage by a first-class steamer that sailed about two weeks ago. Each knew that she was to have a companion in her stateroom, but did not know who she would be, and was probably somewhat anxious on this point. Truth is stranger than fiction. The steamer sailed proudly down the bay. One of our dressmakers was on deck enjoying the scene, which was novel to her. She was delighted that she had outwitted her rival up in Troy. Presently she went down to her stateroom to see what sort of room-mate she had. On entering the room she found her rival. Both ladies threw up their hands, exclaimed, "You here!" and both fainted. A passenger saw two number three gaiters with feet in them projecting through the doorway. This excited suspicion and the matter was investigated. Both ladies were found insensible. The Captain was heard to remark to the second officer, an hour afterward, that he'd be blessed if he ever saw anybody get sea-sick so quick as those two women did. Our reporter, from whom we learned these facts by a special cable dispatch, says it was the most comical sight he ever saw to see how the two ladies studied to avoid each other during the trip. They tried to trade staterooms with somebody, but could not. Finally, after living together for nearly ten days, each began to appreciate the fact that her rival was a most estimable lady, and very sharp at business. Gradually they began to talk to each other, coldly at first, but at last fell into each other's arms, wept and asked forgiveness. The result was that they formed a copartnership, and when they return will set up the most extensive dressmaking establishment ever known in this part of the State. If you believe this is a yarn, just make a few inquiries and satisfy yourself.--Troy (N. Y.) Press.

What Constitutes a Gentleman?

"Halloo! you man with a pail and frock," said a British officer, as he brought his fiery horse to a stand in front of Gov. Chittenden's dwelling, "can you inform me whether His Honor, the Governor of Vermont, resides here?"

"He does," was the response of the man, still wending his way to the pig sty.

"Is His Honor at home?" continued the man of spurs.

"Most certainly," replied the man of the frock.

"Take my horse by the bit then," said the officer, "I have business to transact with your master."

Without a second bidding the man did as requested, and then the officer having alighted, made his way to the door, and gave the panel several hearty raps with his whip; for, be it known, in those days of republican simplicity, knockers and bells, like servants, were in but little use.

The good dame answered the summons, and having seated the officer, and ascertained his desire to see the Governor, she departed to inform her husband of the guest's arrival; but on ascertaining that the officer had made a hitching post of her husband, she returned and informed him that the Governor was engaged in the yard, and could not very well wait upon him and his horse at the same time.

The predicament of the officer can be better imagined than described.

Will Not Exhibit.

The Kent Scientific Institute will not exhibit their myriad of curiosities at the Fair this year, and this for the very best of reasons. Some time ago when their collection was smaller, and of less value, it was a comparatively easy matter to transport everything to and from the ground, and if aught was lost it might be replaced. But this was in years gone. The Institute has now passed its infancy, and developed into an antonishing magnitude and importance. In late years it has been a very different matter to be on hand at Fairs, and to-day it is almost an impossibility to do so. Everything is arranged and in order at the rooms in the Union School building, and could only be removed thence at an equally great trouble and expense. It has therefore, upon reflection, been decided by those interested that an invitation shall be extended citizens and visitors during Fair time to visit the School-house, and at leisure inspect the entire collection as it stands. This course will obviate all difficulties and strikes us as an entirely generous one on the part of the Institute. Before closing we would call attention to the merits of Mr. A. C. Currier, director of the museum. To appreciate the man, you must view his works. Do so at earliest leisure.--Weekly Times.

An Ungrateful Railroad.

Jones had heard about a widow who saved a train of cars from destruction by warning the engineer, as the train approached, that a certain bridge had been washed away, and who had been liberally rewarded by receiving a free pass on nearly all the railroads in the country, and a present of ten thousand dollars from the company whose train she had saved, so Jones thought it pretty profitable business and concluded he'd try it.

He lived near a railroad bridge, and he anxiously watched and waited for it to wash away, feeling sure it must go some time. Every rainy night he got up and paced the floor by spells, and then took his umbrella and went out to see if the bridge was beginning to go; but it was no go.

At last he concluded that if an accident would not happen of its own accord, he would make one to order; so he got upon a high bank at the side of the track one afternoon, and rolled a big rock down upon the rails.

It was just a few minutes before the lightning express was due, and throwing off his coat and hat, so as to appear as excited as possible, he went forth to meet it. He saw it coming in the distance, so he tied a red cotton handkerchief to a hoe handle and waved it above his head in a wild, excited manner, as a signal of danger. But he presented such a singular appearance that the engineer thought him a crazy man escaped from a neighboring lunatic asylum, and so paid no heed to him, and the train thundered on.

There was a sudden whistle of "down brakes," a rapid reversing of the engine, then a terrible crash. The train was wrecked; the engineer and fireman instantly killed; the conductor and all the brakemen dangerously if not fatally wounded; and about ten per cent. of the passengers horribly mangled.

Jones didn't get a pass for life on the principal railroads of the country, and a purse of $10,000; but he got ten years in the penitentiary for manslaughter, having been seen by a neighbor when in the act of rolling the big rock on the track which caused the calamity.

And now he is learning to manufacture shoes by the original process, and is of the opinion that railroads are a curse to the country.

Treasure Hunting--The Story of an Abandoned City in Mexico.

From the San Francisco Bulletin.

The inauguration of the Arizona diamond excitement is evidently the prelude to a perfect whirl of treasure-hunting enthusiasm. The Cocos Island chimera still affords the light of faith and hope, and another expedition is now preparing to renew the search for "devil's wealth" existing, (according to tradition of dubious character,) on the lone isle. We have still another project maturing, more brilliant than all, of which only a few of the main points have yet been revealed. But in due time, no doubt, California street will be afforded an opportunity of taking stock. This latter tradition of great promise relates that once on a time, several hundred years ago, the early French settlers of Louisiana, sent an expedition into the region of a country now designated as New Mexico. They founded a city in a fertile region, on the banks of a beautiful stream, and which became quite populous. There the precious metals, gold and silver, abounded profusely, and the good people, in their religious fervor, erected a magnificent temple, and endowed it bounteously with their wealth. Among its decorations were life size pictures of the virgin and of the saints of their preference, in solid gold and silver. An earthquake occurred, which turned the current of the river--or, indeed, erased it from the face of the earth--and left the city untenable from the absence of water. The inhabitants who survived the calamity, few in number, gathered together their immense treasures and deposited them in a pit, which was excavated on the plaza in front of their splendid church. They then attempted to return westward, but mostly perished by privation or at the hand of hostile Indians. A record of the treasure burying, however, purports to have been preserved in the hands of the Yuma Indians, describing the precise location, and indicating the amount to be many millions. The ruins of the city are said to be discernable on the bank of a dry river in New Mexico, the most convenient point of access thereto being Albuquerque. A frontiersman, who has spent the greater portion of his life upon the plains and in the territory, claims to have got possession of the all-important document referred to, which is said to embrace a diagram indicating the precise spot where this enormous treasure is to be found.

We learn from the Herald that Richard Huxtable, of Robinson Station, attempted to murder his wife on the 16th. A bystander interfered to protect the woman, when Huxtable gave him three severe stabs under the left shoulder. Huxtable has been arrested.

Eloquence of a Life Insurance Agent.

You chance to meet the insurance agent in a railway train, and he says: "Fine day sir." "Most admirable weather, indeed." "Ah, yes, to be sure. Travel very heavy now. Would you believe, sir, that railroad mortality is increasing at a fearful rate?" "Indeed, sir, I was not aware--" "No, sir; nobody is aware until it is too late. You may die in five minutes." "People have died in less time, sir." "Ah, sir, life insurance is a great blessing; have just paid $10,000 to the victim of a railway accident." "Was he hurt much?" "Killed, sir--killed instantly. Family was greatly comforted by the insurance money. Insured yourself, sir?" "I am not insured." "Not insured, sir, and you travel on railroads without being insured?" "Yes, sir, "And on steamboats, too." "I do, sir, frequently." "And on horse-cars, and in a buggy?" "Every day of my life." "Why, sir, don't you know that people are killed every day on railroads, and steamboats, and every place? Bless you, saw-mills are the death of hundreds and thousands every year; and there is fire-arms, sir, and coal-oil, and drug-clerks, and mad dogs, and snakes--why, sir, only the other day a man was bit by a snake and died in fifteen minutes--fifteen minutes, sir and no insurance."

WILLIAM B. ASTOR'S CASTLE.--In viewing William B. Astor's present residence in Lafayette Place, I am forcibly reminded either of an asylum or jail. The occupant has long been troubled with a fear of robbery, which may not be far from a streak of lunacy. He probably carries but little money in his pocket, and I doubt if he has jewelry, still less bonds in his house. The "crackmen" are not apt to rob such places, for they reason too correctly from men's habits. But Mr. Astor has converted his house into a place of defence which, as I said before, suggests to a stranger that it may be a jail or a lunatic asylum. The basement windows are protected by heavy grating. These, however, are common

POLITICIANS TO THE REAR!

The people are conducting the present campaign—not the politicians. Never before in our history as a nation have the people taken so deep an interest in political affairs. Politicians who once dictated public opinion are to-day powerless. They make frantic efforts to lead their old followers into new paths of policy, but they can neither coax nor drive them from the old party. Greeley fancied himself a political loadstone, and thought wherever he went his old friends would follow. To-day he finds himself deserted, or so nearly so that his Republican followers could be accommodated in an old-fashioned stage-coach. Schurz, once an influential man, admired by his countrymen because of his devotion to freedom and for his marked ability, has opened his eye to the fact that he does not carry the German vote in his pocket, and that his countrymen still retain their old-fashioned notion of doing their own thinking. Trumbull, who once thought himself the leader of Western sentiment, has given up in disgust, and will devote the remainder of his days in trying to convince his old friends that he was as honest in voting against the impeachment of "His Accidency," Andy Johnson, as he was in leaving the Republican party, Tipton was never blessed with much influence, so his leap into the Greeley movement has produced about as much disturbance in political affairs as a pebble dropped into the Atlantic.

Sumner has verified his prediction that "principles outlive men." But yesterday the colored people heeded his words as an oracle, to-day they turn from him as a false prophet. They see in his false doctrines of the present the contradiction of the grand truths he taught them in the past. For this reason he has no more influence over the colored vote the KuKlux leaders with whom he has clasped hands.

General Banks, "the lingering shadow of a splendid character," whose greatest enemy has been himself, will find it a hard task to pull down in a few days the fabric which commanded his noblest efforts in the past. His eloquent pleadings are to well remembered to be lost under the new departure which he has taken.

Fansworth had been so long on the fence that his final step took no one by surprise. He had worked with the opposition in the House so long that he was regarded as one of their number before he formally announced himself as such. If he ever had any influence he lost it before he changed his coat, and among Republicans can never hope to recover what he has justly forfeited. The same conclusions hold good with Fenton, Kilpatrick, Doolittle and a class of still smaller politicians, who once had some influence, but are to-day without a follower.

Their old friends have heard their story. They recognize it as the same retailed in 1868 by the Democrats, and they turn from them with contempt.

They know that these gentlemen who pretend to be Reformers, have been tried by an honest Administration and found wanting. They know that the movement inaugurated by Greeley & Co. is purely a personal one, whose object and aim is to bring into power a party that will accept Grant's rejected timber and afford such men as Schurz, Trumbull and Fenton an opportunity to bolster up their falling fortunes at the public expense.

THERE IS NO DOUBT ABOUT IT.

The political horizon shows every indication that the present Administration will continue at the helm of another term, and as a natural sequence, we confidently anticipate an unclouded future, a political sea gloriously, calm, and a course of individual and national prosperity, as will have the effect of swelling the ranks of the army of industry, (the only true army of a republic), and in this way wealth, with its concomitants—abundance and competence—will be the reward of its soldier.

We also confidently anticipate a national career where the valor of arms by land and sea, and the weight of our power, because founded on the people, the yet untarnished, and whose virtue keenly sensitive to the faithful execution of every obligation is yet untarnished, will combine to shed a lustre upon our flag and name which will become brighter and brighter in proportion as we show to the admiring world that we know how to improve the advantages we have gained, that our policy in peace is based on wisdom and good will toward all men; that we are incapable of sacrificing the solid measures upon which this future alone depends, and wedding our fortunes with those who make the petty errors of those to whom we owe the successes of the past and the promised prosperity of the future, and excuse for their unhallowed attempt to wreck the grand old ship, the Great Republic, upon the gloomy and life and liberty destroying rocks of Democracy.

And now, with the well-defined chart of a safe course before us, with a crew and commander whose faults have never turned the good ship from her course, are we willing, have we a right, seeing that millions of the once down-trodden look to us as their sole and natural protectors, to turn our eyes from the prospect, and our course from the path before us, to enter on new and unknown waters and commit the destinies of our great Republic to a venture? Will we cast aside the blessings of which we are in the enjoyment of and have in prospect, and commit our life and happiness to the control of the erratic and prolific ideal "Philosopher of the White Hat," and his dangerous allies?—give up the substance for the shadow?

While, however, we can not divine the specific changes which Mr. Greeley would introduce we do know some things. We know that he is the accepted representative and champion of the Democratic party, and we also know that his administration could not be a truly Republican one as judged from the hodge-podge materials composing it. Mr. Sumner, with the aliveness of a political reynard, heralds his own election by a coalition of Free-Soldiers and Democrats, as an evidence that Greeley will be Republican. But the cases are quite different. Mr. Sumner had announced his intended course, and it was, therefore, fully before the people. Greeley's course is not known, for the simple reason that the will in a large measure of his supporters, not his own, will be the main-spring of his administration.

"Anything to beat Grant," say Mr. Greeley's friends. No more certain proof that Grant is the man for the Republicans when the Democrats wish to beat him. They know well that in beating our standard bearer they beat the Republican party. From office and a share of power they step, as they hope, to supreme power. Assuming that the success of the Democrats in this election would not destroy the Republican party, are its rank and file willing to weaken it? Assuming that it would not entirely overthrow their principles and policy, are they willing to put them in jeopardy? And also assuming that it would not put the Democrats in absolute power, are they willing to put them on the road to it, and give them a better chance to it than themselves? The party which made the new Union is the only party competent and entitled to administer its affairs, and as an earnest that this is the people's mission they will next November continue it in office, having no fear but that all its acts will be, as heretofore, characterized by fidelity to their will and interest, by an honest search for reform, by peace abroad and justice at home, and by an increasing watchfulness in the success of the most important measures for the advancement of our national interests.

This, then, is the safe path, and "there is no doubt about it," free of difficulty and danger; but the other is unknown, and fraught with such difficulties and dangers that even the most vivid imagination cannot conjure them up.

DECLINE IN GREELEY STOCK.

Greeley stock is down, and is going lower every day. If it continues to fall from now until November as it has for the past month, he will be fortunate if he carries a State in the Union. North Carolina gave him the first heavy blow, then came the local elections in Kentucky and Tennessee, all indicating that the bargain made at Baltimore was not ratified by the honest Democrats of the States named. His last chance is in Maine. The desperate measures resorted to in North Carolina are being repeated in Maine. He must carry Maine or his cause is lost. Without one substantial victory to cheer his friends, before November they will desert him by thousands and leave him with his few sore-head followers, "to paddle their own canoe." There are two good reasons for the failure of the Greeley movement:

First. The unimpeachable character of General Grant's administration.

Second. The thorough organization of our friends throughout the country.

The administration may have had its faults, but they are all on its surface, and, like the spots on the sun, are unworthy of mention. When human nature becomes perfect, we may expect perfection in human government—not before. The more we examine into the administration of General Grant, the better it proves. The bitter opposition developed among a few of its former friends has had a tendency to develop its grand results, and these results have satisfied the people. Greeley may cry "reform!" and try through his organ to convince the nation that the administration is corrupt and unworthy of confidence, but he is silenced by his own commendation of a few months since, and the charges of his friends go for naught. The people know that an administration which was considered a model for honesty and economy by Mr. Greeley as late as September, 1871, could not so suddenly become corrupt, especially after Mr. Greeley's nomination at Baltimore.

Considering the character of the men who followed Mr. Greeley out of our camp, the conclusion is that the administration is more honest and economical to-day than ever before. We feel assured that this will be the popular verdict in November next.

Let our friends continue their organization everywhere. Good as it is to-day, it can be made better. Every voter should be known; every district should be thoroughly canvassed, so that on the day of election every man who favors the election of General Grant should so express himself at the ballot box. We want to make the victory complete, and by active work we can administer to Mr. Greeley a rebuke that will be remembered by political tricksters through all time. Organize for the grand triumph which awaits us in November! We have a leader, who in the language of Mr. Greeley, "has never been defeated, and never will be." Let us stand shoulder to shoulder in the contest, and prove to the world that General Grant can lead an army of freemen to grander victories in times of peace than any achieved by him in war.

A GOOD SIGN.

The young men of the nation are largely in favor of Grant and Wilson. This is a good sign, for it shows that the future of the Republic is in safe hands.

Young men growing up among the living issues of the present are free from those prejudices which cause many citizens to cling to a party on account of its old traditions. There are thousands in the land who will vote the Greeley ticket for no other reason than because it was nominated at Baltimore. They have been Democrats all their lives, and are willing to swallow anything that is labeled Democratic. They are blind to their country's interest, and go for their party ticket, "right or wrong."

From this blind partisanship, the young men of the nation are free. They judge the two parties before the people for what they are, not what they have been. They know that the Republican party has done and is doing well for the country. They know that the party that has adopted measures which the Democrats have ceased to oppose and now profess to accept, must be the best party to continue in power. If its work has been good, its guardianship over that work ought to be equally beneficial.

We are glad to welcome the young men of the Republic into the ranks of our party. They have the fire of youth and make earnest workers. The cause sustained by such men cannot fail. It grows in strength every year. It has a vitality that no opposition can check. Its destiny is onward and upward. We lay no claim to those old fossils who are wedded to the empty shell of Democracy. With young America bearing our standard we have no fears for the future. Our victory in November will be the promise of still greater triumphs in the future. As long as the Republican party continues to be as it is now—the party of justice, honesty, economy and loyalty—the young men of America will be enlisted to fight its battles, win its victories, and uphold its banner of universal liberty.

UNION SCHOOL.

Annual Report of the Board of Trustees to the Annual Meeting of School District No. 1, for September, 1872.

Our School year just closed, opened with the most favorable prospects. The disastrous fire of last October, however, had an unpleasant effect upon our school, on account of it being interrupted, and the first term having nearly ended, before many scholars generally attending had resumed their studies, while others have not come back at all this year. Before the fire the Board had made out the report to the supervisor, containing all the amounts voted at the Annual and a Special meeting and those estimated by the Board.

The results of the fire, however, made the Board to consider it their duty to economize as much as possible without injury to the school; for this reason we made out other reports and left out amounts unconsidered as not directly necessary. A kind providence watched also over the wants of our schools. Special donations were received to be exclusively applied to education. As a whole the last examination has given satisfaction, we feel confident to say that our school is in a prosperous condition and which it encourages the Board to persevere in making efforts to bring our school to a yet higher standard, we flatter ourselves also with the co-operation of the people.

Our school has been taught by qualified teachers for 42 weeks, which in connection with the day school also an evening school has been kept during five months.

FINANCIAL REPORT.

The Revenues for the past year have been, School and Mill Tax, (city), $3,856.25; (township), $677.45. Dog-tax, (city), $35.00; (township), $10.25.

Primary School money, (city), $422.40 (township), $19.06.

Donations, $1,058.00.

This makes a total of $6,086.31.

The report shows the names of donors.

From this amount is expended as per ledger, through the different funds, $5,632.49.

This leaves a balance of $363.49, now in the hands of the assessor.

On this amount orders have been drawn since the settlement with the assessor, to the amount of $146.96, and there is about $20 due yet for repairs done last winter; so that in reality we shall have $193.93 cash on hand to begin the new school year with.

For the new school year, we recommend, 1st, to keep 10 months school; 2d, to keep an evening school during 5 months, at the expense of the district.

We propose to use for the new school year, for building and repairs, $300.00; appendages, $175.00; apparatus, $35.00; salary of Director, $25.00; Assessor disbursing of money and paying out, 1/2 per cent.; and that the balance of the different funds be placed in the general fund, in order to pay the deficiencies.

The term of office of two of our Trustees has expired, viz: Rev. R. Pieters and Mr. C. Doesburg, who were elected at the Annual Meeting of 1869.

The children in our District between the ages of 5 and 20 years, number 869. Dated at Holland, the 2d day of September, 1872.

THE PITTSBURG CONVENTION.

Call to the Veteran Soldiers and Sailors of Michigan—Accommodations for all who go.

The Executive Committee appointed last week at a meeting of soldiers and sailors have issued the following: DETROIT, Sep. 2, 1872.

To the Veteran Soldiers and Sailors of Michigan:

The National Convention of Soldiers and Sailors (who support the Grant and Wilson ticket) to be held at Pittsburg on the 18th inst., promises to be the great event of this Campaign. Here will be assembled the most distinguished soldiers and the best speakers from every loyal State. Here will be convened the brave men from every army corps and every fleet who fought under the leadership of our great chief, and under him marched to victory and peace, and who now propose to endorse his re-nomination as the Nation's Chief Executive. The loyal citizens of Pittsburg, who, during the terrible years of the rebellion, did so much for the Union troops passing through their city after seven years of peace invite us again to rendezvous among them that they may prove the truth of their legend, "Pittsburg will never forget her country's defenders."

Arrangements are perfected with the various railroad and steamboat lines for tickets at half fare rates for all who wish to attend.

We invite the earnest co-operation of all Michigan soldiers' and sailors' in making this one of the most interesting events of the decade. Let us determine that Michigan shall be heard in this most important campaign of the war. The fare from Detroit to Pittsburg and return, will be $10 for the round trip. Tickets good from the 12th to 21st. Boats will leave Detroit every evening at 9 o'clock, enabling delegates to reach Pittsburg at 4 o'clock the afternoon following. Delegates in the various towns of Michigan are invited to form clubs, and send a list of names of those who will go as soon as practicable to the undersigned, stating what evening they wish to leave here. This must be done, in order to secure proper accommodations. The Detroit clubs will leave here on the evening of the 15th. County clubs are invited to join them.

F. W. SWIFT, Chairman Executive Committee.

Holland, September 7, 1872.

Local News.

Peaches are coming in freely.

John Albers is now occupying his new brick store.

The Van den Berge block is now completed, and shows well.

The work of grading Ninth street was commenced yesterday.

Capt. H. S. Clubb has received the nomination of the Republican Senatorial Convention, for Senator. Of course, he will be elected.

There will be a meeting of the Grant and Wilson club of this city, on Wednesday evening next at the City Hall, at 7 o'clock.

Col. Andrew T. McReynolds of Grand Rapids, has been nominated by the Democrats for Congress in this Congressional District, only to be beaten.

The friends of Rev. W. A. Bronson gave a reception at the new church on Thursday evening last; it resulted in a benefit to the Dominie of nearly fifty dollars.

At the School District meeting held last Monday evening, Mr. C. Doesburg and Rev. R. Pieters were re-elected as trustees for the term of two years. The report of officers we publish in another column.

Cards of invitation are out for a dance at the Aetna House, next Friday evening; an opportunity lovers of the "art" will readily appreciate, as a good time may be expected.

A match game of Base Ball was played in this city, on Wednesday last, between the Eagles of Grand Haven, and the Dolly Vardens of Fennville, resulting in the score of 45 for the Eagles, to 35 for the Dolly Vardens.

S. D. Clay, of Grand Rapids, is out with Greeley; in a long letter published in the Eagle, he declares for Grant and Wilson. He will not shake hands "across the bloody chasm," with the rebel and Union dead.

A son of M. Johnson about five years of age, while playing in the new City Hotel building, a piece of board fell from above striking him over the left eye, producing injuries by which he will lose the sight of the eye.

Capt E. L. Crow, of Fruitport, notoriety has been nominated by the Liberals as candidate for State Senator, in this Senatorial District. We sympathize with the Capt., for we think him too good a man to be immolated upon the altar of "anything to beat Grant," and had hoped a better fate for him.

Mr. J. O. Bakker informs the citizens of this vicinity that he intends to close out his Boots and Shoes at a regardless cost; John is going into his new brick store soon and must have an entire new stock of goods to commence with, now is the time to buy cheap; read his advertisement in another column.

STRAW ON THE EXCURSION TRAIN.—A vote was taken on the excursion train which went to St. Jo., Wednesday, everybody voting, at first, and Grant had 253 votes, Greeley 67, Woodhull 3, Louisville 3, and Black, prohibition, 2. Then only the legal electors voted, and the result was Grant 101, Greeley 22.

MORE RAILROAD STRAWS.—Tuesday morning a vote was taken on the C. & M. L. S. R. R. train between Grand Haven and Holland, resulting: Grant, 83; Greeley, 41; Woodhull, 1. In the afternoon a vote was taken on the train between Holland and Grand Haven. Result—19 for Grant and 1 for Greeley.

Eagle Fire Company was out for general review and practice on Thursday last, a fine looking body of men, and made a fine appearance while on duty. We regret to note however that a little "unpleasantness" occurred between the companies, which should be avoided on all future occasions as they only tend to mar the pleasure at such times as good feeling is expected to prevail.

The "Liberals" were quite liberal in their nominations the other day, giving to Holland and Hollanders nearly all the nominations, making it virtually a contest between Holland and Grand Haven. We have no hopes, however, of the Holland ticket being elected, we shall support the Grand Haven ticket. As a Republican, we don't bite.

Gen. B. M. Cuthbert delivered a very able political speech to our citizens on Saturday evening last to a large and intelligent audience. Shouting for Greeley has subsided, in these parts, nothing is heard from his friends, the petition of Gen. Grant "Let us have peace" is enjoyed in a remarkable degree, not a ripple to remind us that an active political campaign is going on, all is quiet, and likely to remain so.

UNION FAIR ITEMS.—One dollar entitles you to membership, besides four tickets.... Twenty-five cents admits you to the Fair-grounds; and if you have any children under 12 years of age, they can go in for fifteen cents. All visitors to the Fair will be charged half-fare on the railroads running into the city.... The State Pomological Society will give special premiums for fine collections of fruits.... Everybody is going to the Fair.

We this week publish advertisement of the Great Union Fair of Michigan, to be held at Grand Rapids, Mich., Sep. 16th to 21st inclusive. That the second annual Fair of this society will eclipse any former effort made by any society in this State is not beyond a doubt; large additions have been made for the accommodation of cattle, and yet it is feared that more room will be required; every effort is being made by the officers of the society to accommodate all, it will be the finest exhibition of the kind ever held in Michigan. Every body will attend.

We notice that our old army friend, Capt. R. A. Haire, has been nominated for Representative by the Republicans in the Second Representative District of this county. We are glad that the Capt. has been complimented with this nomination, and can assure our friends in that District that they are supporting one of our country's bravest defenders, and a true Republican. Should he be elected, as he ought, he will prove an able, Legislator, courteous and kind, and an honor to the District he represents.

The following is the Democratic ticket as nominated at Grand Haven a few days since:

Sheriff, R. Van der Hoof.
Clerk, G. Bolks.
Register, G. Van Schelven.
Treasurer, H. Burnett.
Prosecuting Attorney, J. Y. Burnham.
Circuit Court Com'rs, L. M. Comstock, T. F. Howe.
Surveyor, J. P. Breyton.
Coroners, C. De Putten, E. Richmond.
Fish Inspectors, J. Zietlow, W. Visser.

For Representative in the 1st Legislative District, K. Schaddelee.
For Representative in the 2d Legislative District, Hon. A. C. Adsit.

EXHIBITORS AT THE UNION FAIR.—Those who intend to exhibit at the Union Fair, in the Agricultural and Mechanical Departments, are requested to make their entries without delay. It will avoid much of the crowding incident to large fairs if all who reside in or near the city will call at the Secretary's office, 82 Sweet's Hotel, during the present week, so as to leave next week, as much as possible, to persons from a distance.

Entries for the speed premiums must all be made on or before 9 o'clock, P. M., Monday, Sep. 9th. No entries in this department can be made until the entry fee of ten per cent. of purse is paid to the Secretary.—Grand Rapids Democrat, 8th.

The State Pomological Society, which met at South Haven this week, was a decided success. Those who attended the meeting, speak in highest praise for the many acts of kindness bestowed upon them by the citizens of that place, and the efforts made by Supt. Morrison and his employees for successfully caring for them in transit, as the following correspondence and resolutions will show:

HOLLAND, Sept. 5th, 1872.
A. H. MORRISON, Esq., St. Joseph.
DEAR SIR:—I have the honor to transmit herewith, a copy of Resolutions passed by returning excursionists at this station. With this, please accept the thanks of President Thompson and myself for your kindness in so cheerfully passing us over your road.

Most Respectfully,
Your Obt. Servant,
C. J. DISTRICH,
Sec'y. Mich. State Pomological Society.
The following are the Resolutions passed unanimously by the returning excursionists of the State Pomological Society, at Holland:
