HOPE COLLEGE
HOLLAND, MICH. 49423
President’s Report

This Annual Report is being written at the close of my fourth year at Hope College. The students who arrived with me as freshmen have now gone on to take their places in business, industry, education, the arts, and in graduate and professional schools.

These four years have been most rewarding for me personally and also for my family. The deepest source of joy has been the rich fellowship and rewarding associations with thousands of persons in the immediate and larger Hope College family. It is good to be able to live and work with the conviction that this is the right place for us, at this point in our lives.

As I reflect on these four years, one thing which stands out is the number of projects which were planned or underway when I arrived that have now been completed. I am grateful to all those who did this creative planning. The Peale Science Center was completed in 1973; in this same year a new computer was acquired, and a computer science major initiated; the renovated Lubbers Hall for the Humanities and Social Sciences was occupied in late 1974; Phelps Dining Hall was renovated in 1975 through a generous gift from the Women’s League for Hope College. And now the design for the new Physical Education Center is underway, and we anticipate breaking ground in this coming fall. During this same period, $1 million was added to the endowment.

All of these projects were part of Build Hope, the very comprehensive and strategic $8,850,000 program in campus development which the Board of Trustees initiated in 1972. Shortly before the close of our fiscal year on June 30, we reached this goal in gifts and pledges. What a tremendous impact this program has made on the College; how deeply grateful we are to all who have contributed to its success!

We are now planning to conclude Build Hope at the end of 1976. At this point, we are seeking to raise the $400,000 still needed for the Physical Education Center. Our goal is to have these funds in hand through gifts and pledges before construction begins late this fall. Since these funds are also part of Build Hope, we see the distinct possibility of bringing Build Hope to a conclusion on December 31, 1976, with $10,000,000 received in gifts and pledges.

During this past year we have become increasingly mindful of the vital importance of charting the future course for Hope College. As these major projects were being completed, it became evident that we should have a well-developed plan for the College’s next phase of physical and financial development. Further, a decreasing number of high school graduates over the next decade, the increasing financial stresses on all of higher education and independent colleges in particular, and the continued questioning of the value and significance of higher education, particularly liberal arts education—these factors all call for us to very clearly define our mission and our plans to accomplish this mission.

For these reasons, a major effort to formulate long-range plans was initiated during this past year. During this next year, one of our major responsibilities will be to complete the formulation of these plans, with specific attention being focused on facilities, financial resources, residential life, and academic programs.

Two points regarding our future are already very clear. First, the greatest factor in assuring our future strength is continued excellence. This has been our strength in the past and there is much evidence that many of today’s young people and their parents are keenly interested in a college which strives for excellence in all facets of its life and work. For us this means excellence in our academic programs and all dimensions of student life, including the nurturing of values, creativity, and faith.

Second, we have a distinct advantage because of our commitment to a liberal arts education within the context of the Christian faith. I say this because one of the most crucial and profound issues facing the world today is the nature of man. There is an ever increasing tendency to view man in terms of his function—the contribution he can make to society. In this context, the benefits of higher education are measured primarily in terms of how effectively students are prepared for their work—their function in society. This emphasis on function has its roots in the premise that human existence is the sole result of change processes, and that man is really alone in the universe.

Sharply contrasting to this is the viewpoint provided by the Christian faith; each person is a child of God who has been endowed with personality, intelligence, creativity, moral sense, and the ability to live in relationship with God and his fellow man. In this view, each person has an inherent significance and capacity for development, quite apart from his function in society (though the latter is both important and essential). Thus a college which seeks to be a liberal arts college in the context of the Christian faith has the advantage of having a significant basis for vigorously promoting all that the concept of the liberal arts embraces. The implementation of this vision of liberal arts education in the context of the Christian faith, and in a spirit of freedom, openness, and creativity, is the great challenge which is before us! Increasingly I see the significance of Elton Trueblood’s words when he wrote:

"I don’t see any great hope for our civilization unless we can build up a new community of Christian intellectuals – People who can outthink as well as outlive and outlove all opposition. People who will courageously go on even when their position is unpopular. Wouldn’t it be a strange thing if the Christian college should turn out to be our greatest hope?"

As I reflect on the year which has passed, many accomplishments and events come to mind to assure us that Hope’s commitment to excellence in residential, undergraduate, liberal arts education was achieved in a very significant measure. These accomplishments are difficult to quantify or even summarize. Rather, the evidence is gleaned from conversations with students and faculty, from expressions of appreciation from parents at Commencement, from the comments of interviewers who visit our Placement Office, from the reactions of guest speakers and lecturers, from persons in the community who have contact with our students, from letters received from churches and families after the Chapel Choir’s tour to the East Coast, from faculty members in graduate and professional schools where our graduates continue their education, and from pastors who converse with their young people after they return home.

In a very significant way, all of the things which are accomplished at Hope College are accomplished through people – faculty, staff, students, alumni and friends, as well as persons in foundations, business, and industry. How can one even approach giving adequate recognition to all the persons who have played a key role in the life of Hope College this year? In the paragraphs which follow, I can touch on only a few of the highlights.

The essential strength of Hope College continues to be our faculty. As we review the work of our faculty. I am impressed again and again with their dedication, diligence, and scholarship; their deep interest in our students and willingness so often to go the "second mile" in seeking the welfare of our students.

The most important decision we make for the long-term strength of the College involves the selection of the faculty. We are grateful that we have been able to continue to add outstanding men and women to our faculty. We look forward to a long and fruitful association with these new faculty members, who serve as academic leaders as well as personal models for our students.

The entire College family was saddened by the death on March 15 of Prof. Robert Cavanaugh, our senior active faculty member in terms of service to the College. Prof. Cavanaugh, in his position as chairman of the Music Department and director of the Chapel Choir, had exerted a most remarkable impact on the life of the College and on the lives of many individual students. Perhaps the greatest tribute I can pay to Prof. Cavanaugh is to share a quotation which Mrs. Cavanaugh recently sent to me, from a statement which Prof. Cavanaugh wrote in the program for a music conference held in 1958:

"Certainly the most precious relationship any Christian can possess is that between him and his Lord and Savior. This relationship can best be expressed by the worship of God, using all the best that one has in declaring that worship.

"Music is a wonderful, God-given gift to man. It is a gift, which when used well, can enhance and beautify the act of worship. God has also given man a heart and a mind, emotions and intellect, both of which should be employed in returning God's gifts to Him. Too often we are prone to use one to the exclusion of the other, especially when we sing God's praises. Too often our worship music is emotional only: it is cloying and sentimental and without the gift of intelligence. Too often it is pointed toward us, rather than toward our Creator and Redeemer. More rarely, because it is all emotion and little thought, it does not convey the full respect toward God that any act of worship should.

"There exists an immense amount of fine sacred music, music which glorifies, edifies, and praises God. We cannot afford to worship God in an inferior manner. We cannot ignore the best way to cement our relationship to God. We must please God first, not ourselves. We must use sacred music as one means of proving that He is truly a God worthy at all times of worship and wonder."

In recognizing significant contributions to the life and work of the College, a specific note of acknowledgement is due to those members of our staff who serve in non-teaching functions, such as our secretaries and maintenance and custodial staff.

In a college environment, it is easy to take these persons for granted and to fail to incorporate them fully into the life of the College. We are grateful for our dedicated staff, and for their outstanding contributions to the work of the College. We continue to seek ways to make their participation in the College a rewarding and satisfying experience.

This past year there has been a most rewarding sense of diligence, enthusiasm, openness, and responsiveness on the part of our students. Again this year we witnessed the continuance of a shift of students’ concern from the evils and problems of the world to a concern for their personal lives and their places and responsibilities in society. The shift has, in many ways, been a wholesome corrective to the extremes of social radicalism of the late sixties and early seventies. My concern now is that these changes not go to the other extreme of self-centeredness or hedonism. One of our responsibilities as faculty and staff is to provide a counterbalance to the rather frequent variations in students’ attitudes and perceptions, and to encourage students to achieve a wholesome and balanced vision of reality and life. It might well be that in these days our faculty should take leadership in developing concern for righteousness, justice, and freedom, as well as a compassion for the needy and downtrodden in the world. These issues are of vital concern in contemporary society and call for thoughtful and reasonable attention.

When we think of the persons who have played a major role in the life of the College, we reflect on the many members of the larger Hope College family who have made generous gifts to the College this past year. These persons, numbering in the thousands, have supported the College through their personal resources and those of the organizations they are affiliated with.

One of the most exciting and rewarding aspects of the year has been the great increase in the participation of our alumni in the Annual Fund and other support of the College. In 1974-75, 2,645 alumni shared in the work of the College through their gifts; in 1975-76 the number increased to 3,889, which represented 33% of all living alumni. This past year the total alumni giving to the Annual Fund was $196,404 as compared to $140,454 in 1974-75. Total giving from alumni for all purposes was $717,616. To each of our alumni who shared in the work of the College, we are most grateful.

One of the highlights of the year was the gift from Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Cook of an endowed chair, the first to be received in the recent history of the College. The first appointee to this chair is Dr. Lars Granberg, who has been appointed the "Peter C. and Emagene Cook Professor of Psychology." The entire College community is deeply grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Cook for their generous gift and for their vision for continued excellence and Christian commitment at the College. We hope that this is but the first of many endowed chairs at Hope College.

A most significant contribution to the future strength of Hope College was made by the Herbert H. and Grace A. Dow Foundation of Midland, Mich., through a grant of $500,000 for the new Physical Education Center. This grant came when we were just over the half-way mark in raising the $3,200,000 needed for this project. This gift was of vital importance in terms of its total amount; the timing was also significant because with this gift we could see the project coming to a successful conclusion, and it provided a great incentive to our staff and other donors to bring this project to a successful conclusion.

We also note with appreciation the increase in gifts from churches, particularly after a decline the two previous years. We seek to develop meaningful and mutually-supportive relationships with our churches, and are grateful for many pastors and parishioners who have a deep interest in the work and mission of Hope College.

The significant increase in gifts from the local business and industry community is also greatly appreciated. The Holland-Zeeland area is a wonderful place for a college. We enjoy and appreciate the excellent "town-gown" relationships we have and are committed to be responsible and supportive participants in the total life of the community. We are grateful for the excellent business relationships which we have with many firms and organizations in the community.

Total unduplicated students aided by the above programs 1,580
Just after the fiscal year closed on June 30 we received word from The Kresge Foundation that they have made a challenge grant to Hope College in the amount of $300,000 for the Physical Education Center. This brings the total amount of the grants received from The Kresge Foundation for campus development to $875,000. What a profound impact these gifts have made on our facilities at Hope College! We are deeply grateful to each person in The Kresge Foundation who has made these gifts possible.

Overall, this has been a very successful year in terms of gifts received by Hope College, with a total of $2,623,155 received.

One significant factor is the great increase in the number of persons who are arranging their estates so that Hope College will receive some of their resources when they are no longer needed. Many are taking advantage of the services offered by our Office of Donor Financial Planning, and participating in one of our programs which provides both for a lifetime income and a gift to the College.

We express a special word of appreciation to the Class of 1926 which this May celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their graduation from Hope College. This very remarkable class has contributed in a variety of ways over $1,000,000 to Hope College. To each member and to their class president, Mr. James M. VerMeulen, who also served as chairman of Build Hope, we express this special word of gratitude.

To all who contributed to make this one of the most successful years, in terms of gifts received, in the history of Hope College, we extend our deepest appreciation.

During this past year our enrollment was at full capacity. We are grateful that we continue to enroll many students from outside Michigan, including many students from abroad. Hope College has a long tradition of having such diversity, and we believe this contributes significantly to the intellectual and cultural environment of the campus.

From a financial perspective, the year was both difficult and rewarding. The difficulty was due primarily to increases in costs for utilities, with the result that these expenses were significantly above our budget. However, because of the generous support we received for our Annual Fund, and because of a slightly greater enrollment than expected, we were able to complete the fiscal year with a balanced budget – the tenth successive year of deficit-free operation.

One continuing concern is the level of our faculty and staff salaries. Over the years salaries at Hope College have been lower than the national average at comparable schools. In recent years, faculty salaries throughout the country have fallen behind the nationwide rise in salaries and cost of living. This is also true at Hope, even though our salary increases have been slightly above the national average. We are now seeking resources which will enable us to provide a substantial increment in salaries so that we are responsive to the legitimate salary expectations of our faculty. This matter will receive specific attention in the year ahead.

In reviewing this year, we realize that we have much to be grateful for. However, this gratitude is much more than a recognition that things turned out well. It is first of all an expression of deep appreciation to each person – faculty, staff, students, alumni, parents, and friends – who made this a rewarding and fulfilling year. Ultimately, it is to acknowledge the goodness and grace of God for all He has done in the hearts and lives of His people individually and corporately in the life of the College. It is this perspective on the year which has passed that gives us courage and confidence for the future.
Financial Statement

During the past fiscal year, contributions to the College’s operating fund increased by 17% which helped compensate for much of the unexpected expense increases the College absorbed. Because of the increased support and a small unexpected increase in enrollment, the College was able to end the year with a modest surplus.

Total giving to the College increased by over 50%. Although much of this was in the area of deferred giving and bequests, substantial gifts were received for our building and campus improvements for which we are very thankful.

The year ahead will again be very challenging financially and we are actively pursuing ways of meeting the needs of the campus community as economically as possible in order that all funds we receive are used judiciously.

We are proud of the external support we receive from our friends and we know that the financial stability of Hope College is dependent upon the continued interest of our many constituencies. Thank you for the interest you have shown in Hope.

A profound "Thank You" to each of the 3,889 Alumni who participated in the very successful 1975-76 Annual Alumni Fund. Our goal was 2,860 donors. Our dollar goal was $170,000 and the final total was $199,045.

I am writing this message to you from the campus in the midst of Freshman Orientation Weekend, having brought our daughter to campus to begin her freshman year. How exciting it is to see approximately 570 young men and women and their families unloading all kinds of paraphernalia as they eagerly and anxiously enter this new aspect of their lives! How exciting it is to greet college friends bringing their children to campus! How exciting to attend a performance of "Fiddler on the Roof" in the theatre! How exciting to share in a family picnic in the Pine Grove, orientation sessions for parents, a family Worship Service in the Chapel on Sunday morning!

Yes, Hope College in August of 1976 is an exciting place! It is good to be part of it all. And to all of you out there, in many places of the world - you are part of it, too! Our Annual Fund dollars go to the operating costs of the college. In June, when the college closed its financial year, it had an operating fund balance of $7,000. Considering that in 1974-75, Alumni giving was $140,455 and in 1975-76 it was $199,045, we can rightfully say that our giving made a difference in the college being able to finish with a surplus rather than a deficit.

On behalf of all at Hope College, Thank You!

Jack H. Hascup
National Alumni Fund Chairman
