Abstract

Ronald P. Brown was born in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in 1933. He attended Hope College in Holland, Michigan, and majored in science. He graduated magna cum laude with an A.B. and majors in chemistry, mathematics and physics in 1955 and was offered teaching assistantships at twelve universities. At the University of Wisconsin, he worked toward a doctorate and taught in the science department on a teaching fellowship. At the end of his first year of graduate school, Brown felt called to enter the ministry and moved to Holland, Michigan, where he attended Western Theological Seminary. He was ordained by the Reformed Church in America in 1959 and accepted a call to the Trinity Reformed Church in Grand Haven, Michigan. From 1962-1966, he was the pastor of the Beverly Reformed Church in Grand Rapids, Michigan. During the years 1966-1971, Brown served as pastor for Calvary Reformed Church in South Holland, Illinois. In 1971, he was the founder and governor of the Calvary Free Academy, a K-12 Christian school of 200 students and was the pastor/founder of the King’s Community of Chicagoland, a 300-member, multi-racial independent congregation. Emphasis was on training lay leadership for home meetings and on corporate worship. He also founded a drug abuse ministry for girls in 1972. From 1967 until his death in 1981, Brown conducted a daily, listener-supported, hour-long question and answer call-in radio broadcast called Question Line, which was named the most influential Christian radio broadcast in Chicagoland. The collection is made up of Question Line digest booklets, 1969-1973, and audiotape cassettes and reel-to-reel tapes of Brown’s sermons, 1968-1982. These sermons are also stored as digital files on a computer hard drive.

Biography

Ronald P. Brown was born in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in 1933 to Kathryn and Stanley Brown. His mother was Dutch and the family attended the Reformed Church in Milwaukee. His father was active in the consistory and his mother in Sunday school teaching. He attended the Milwaukee Public Schools and graduated in 1951 with honors.

He attended Hope College in Holland, Michigan, and majored in science. He graduated magna cum laude with an A.B. and majors in chemistry, mathematics and physics in 1955 and was offered teaching assistantships at twelve universities. He was in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and was offered a Fulbright Scholarship. He received National Honorary German Fraternity honor, Senior Honors, and membership in the Blue Key National Honorary Fraternity.
He married his wife Donna following their graduation from Hope College and accepted a teaching scholarship at the University of Wisconsin, where he worked toward a doctorate and taught in the science department. At the end of his first year of graduate school, he felt called to enter the ministry and moved to Holland, Michigan, where he attended Western Theological Seminary. While at the seminary, he taught twelve hours per week of college math courses while maintaining an A average in his seminary studies. Brown was ordained by the Reformed Church in America on September 2, 1959, and accepted a call to the Trinity Reformed Church in Grand Haven, Michigan. While there, the congregation grew from 50 to 85 families and became a self-supporting congregation. He also founded a missionary Sunday school that became a church.

From 1962-1966, he was the pastor of the Beverly Reformed Church in Grand Rapids, Michigan. While there, the church received more than 100 professions of faith, and the increased attendance necessitated major building expansion. The church also founded a youth-led missionary inner-city Sunday school, and missionary support doubled. Brown founded a daily radio broadcast of question and answers while there and continued to have a daily radio ministry until his death.

During the years 1966-1971, Ron served as pastor for Calvary Reformed Church in South Holland, Illinois. While there, he built and dedicated an 800-seat auditorium and initiated missions and evangelism programs. He also had a daily radio broadcast.

In 1971, he was the founder and governor of the Calvary Free Academy, a K-12 Christian school of 200 students and was the pastor-founder of the King’s Community of Chicagoland, a 300-member, multi-racial independent congregation. Emphasis was on training lay leadership for home meetings and on corporate worship. He also founded a drug abuse ministry for girls in 1972.

From 1967 until his death in 1981, Brown conducted a daily, listener-supported, hour-long question and answer call-in radio broadcast called Question Line, which was named the most influential Christian radio broadcast in Chicagoland.

Ronald Brown died of a heart attack in August 1981 and is buried in Milwaukee. He was a husband to his wife Donna and father to five children—Deborah, Nancy and Sarah, Della Joy, and Janis.

Scope and Content

The collection is made up of Question Line digest booklets, 1969-1973, and audiotape cassettes and reel-to-reel tapes of Brown’s sermons, 1968-1982. These sermons are also stored as digital files on a computer hard drive.
